Re: 2002 Budgets

This booklet is being provided in an effort to gather and share information relative to the technology budget for 2002. It is anticipated that by planning ahead and coordinating our efforts, we will arrive at a more comprehensive budget for the coming year.

Enclosed are budget detail forms, a questionnaire and worksheets, several of which you may have seen before, along with guidelines for working through everything. Many of these forms include background information specific to your Office or Group, including account totals from previous years and hardware inventory information, if applicable.

We recommend you read through the questionnaire and worksheets and begin to pull together the information you will need to provide. The collection of this information will be organized electronically in a common Quick Place area that will be created for this purpose. In the near future, you will receive an e-mail with instructions for entering the information, along with links to your Office or Group's specific files.

Should you have any questions, a contact has been designated for each section of the book. Please do not hesitate to call either them or me.

I've attempted to get you as complete answers as are readily available. Ava Slaughter is the local ISS manager here, as well as the whole of the local ISS staff. As you can imagine, she is extremely busy with both her 'day job' as well as assisting in the conversion to Jones Day. I had a brief interview with her regarding your questions, and she will be providing me with some additional information as noted below that I will pass along to you as soon as possible.

Please feel free to contact me if there is any other information that you need.

RE: Ava Slaughter vs. Jones Day
EEOC Charge No. 330-2004-01431

Dear Mr. Williams:

After reviewing some of the correspondence from your office regarding a charge filed against Jones Day, we noticed that, on its behalf, you have claimed that the statements and related information provided by your company (or provided on its behalf) are confidential and cannot be disclosed without your client's permission. Our agency has disclosure responsibilities under the Freedom of Information Act that may conflict with your confidentiality assertion. Also, the charging party may be provided with your information if this facilitates our investigation. So please be advised that this confidentiality assertion is not, in our view, entitled to deference. Of course, if you have some basis for claiming confidentiality that is judicially recognized and has not been made known to us, please advise us in writing and your concerns will then be carefully reviewed. If you do not provide justification for this assertion of confidentiality within a week, please expect that your and other submittals on your clients' behalf will only have such confidentiality as is consistent with our agency's responsibilities under the Freedom of Information Act and our priority charge processing procedures and guidelines.

As a courtesy to your colleagues that handle EEOC cases in your firm, please bring this matter to their attention. As we are simply restating the obvious, claims of confidentiality must be supported by actual doctrinal authority rather than merely adversarial convenience.

Sincerely yours,

Ethel Bush
Enforcement Supervisor
